

What was the best gift you have ever got? Who gave it to you?

It was a debit card I got from my parents last birthday. They prepared my tuition fee for me to study abroad and saved it on that card. They asked me to use the money to do two things: study hard and enjoy life. They are the coolest parents in the world!

Fascination

I am really into it because it enables me to release my stress, spice up my life and always works its magic to put me in a good mood.

I am not exaggerating, it can even broaden my horizons, enrich my knowledge and cultivate my temperament /aesthetic judgment.

TV

Do you love watching TV?

I had been being crazy about it. But since I got my computer, the novelty to TV gradually wore off. It is much easier to search for the program I want, I can watch any program I fancy anytime I want. And the best part is that there are no annoying never-ending advertisements.

What kind of TV programs do you love?

Entertainment programs attract me most because they are entertaining and relaxing. They help me run away from the daily grind.

Do parents in China allow their kids to watch TV? Explain why.

Most of the parents in China don't allow their kids to watch TV mostly because parents think it is a waste of time and bad for their kid's eyes. They believe their kids should spend time on things more worthwhile. They push their kids to take as many training courses as possible to become "versatile". They hope their kids can get free pass to some key high schools as students with special talents.
