

Clothes

What kind of clothes do you love to wear?

Fashionable and unique, I think I have good taste in clothes. I always wear clothes and never let clothes wear me. People say clothes speak one's personality. I couldn't agree more. I love chic clothes; I am vibrant, sparkling and fashionable.

Where do you normally get clothes in China?

Wow, I am totally spoiled for choice: shopping malls, department stores, boutiques, wholesale markets and online stores. I normally buy clothes online because they are quite cheap.

Are the clothes in China very expensive?

Well, it depends on what kind of clothes we are talking about here. Clothes of luxury brands like Chanel, LV, Gucci and Hermes are very expensive. I guess it is because of the heavy import tariffs. But as to domestic brands, clothes are pretty cheap.

Birthday

How do Chinese normally celebrate birthdays?

We Chinese normally ask relatives and a bunch of friends to get together, throw a birthday party or go to KTV to sing Karaoke. Of course, we also buy the birthday cake, make birthday wishes and blow out the birthday candles.

What are the important birthdays for Chinese?

I guess it is 18th birthday, 30th, 40th, 50th, 60th birthday. They all stand for different stages of one's life. I will take 18th birthday as an example, 18th birthday, it is the time to wave bye-bye to the teenage time and say hello to the adult life. It is a brand new start and a turning point. It is a once-in-life-time period.

You love to get gifts or send gifts? Explain why.

Like most of the guys, I love to get gifts from others because I enjoy the moment when I open the gift box and find out what it is inside. It is such a surprising feeling. And normally the gifts from someone special are of great sentimental value.

谢谢
